

QUEERS AGAINST COPS

The police exist as a force to preserve and maintain the status quo—a status quo founded on cis-hetero-patriarchy, white supremacy, colonialism, and capitalism. Many of us, especially the most marginalized under these systems, feel unsafe around the police.

Pride began as a riot—with sex workers at the front—against the police. It was self-defense from the routine homophobic and transphobic attacks carried out by police.

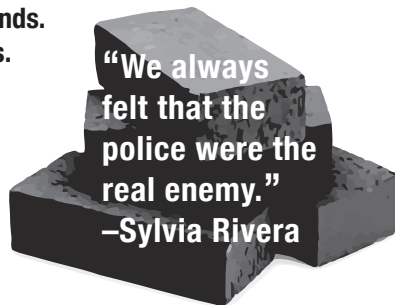

Cops shouldn't be here because they rape, imprison, and kill sex workers, especially those who are black and/or trans. Cops shouldn't be here because they embody anti-queer violence, regardless of their personal identity. Cops shouldn't be here if black lives matter.

- >>> Police are not our friends.
- >> Police do not protect us.
- > Police are not welcome.

no pride

in a police

state

QUEERS AGAINST COPS

The police exist as a force to preserve and maintain the status quo—a status quo founded on cis-hetero-patriarchy, white supremacy, colonialism, and capitalism. Many of us, especially the most marginalized under these systems, feel unsafe around the police.

Pride began as a riot—with sex workers at the front—against the police. It was self-defense from the routine homophobic and transphobic attacks carried out by police.

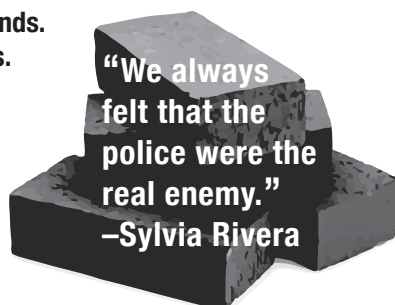

Cops shouldn't be here because they rape, imprison, and kill sex workers, especially those who are black and/or trans. Cops shouldn't be here because they embody anti-queer violence, regardless of their personal identity. Cops shouldn't be here if black lives matter.

- >>> Police are not our friends.
- >> Police do not protect us.
- > Police are not welcome.

no pride

in a police

state

QUEERS AGAINST COPS

The police exist as a force to preserve and maintain the status quo—a status quo founded on cis-hetero-patriarchy, white supremacy, colonialism, and capitalism. Many of us, especially the most marginalized under these systems, feel unsafe around the police.

Pride began as a riot—with sex workers at the front—against the police. It was self-defense from the routine homophobic and transphobic attacks carried out by police.

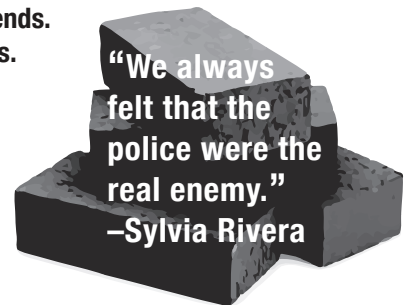

Cops shouldn't be here because they rape, imprison, and kill sex workers, especially those who are black and/or trans. Cops shouldn't be here because they embody anti-queer violence, regardless of their personal identity. Cops shouldn't be here if black lives matter.

- >>> Police are not our friends.
- >> Police do not protect us.
- > Police are not welcome.

no pride

in a police

state

QUEERS AGAINST COPS

The police exist as a force to preserve and maintain the status quo—a status quo founded on cis-hetero-patriarchy, white supremacy, colonialism, and capitalism. Many of us, especially the most marginalized under these systems, feel unsafe around the police.

Pride began as a riot—with sex workers at the front—against the police. It was self-defense from the routine homophobic and transphobic attacks carried out by police.

Cops shouldn't be here because they rape, imprison, and kill sex workers, especially those who are black and/or trans. Cops shouldn't be here because they embody anti-queer violence, regardless of their personal identity. Cops shouldn't be here if black lives matter.

- >>> Police are not our friends.
- >> Police do not protect us.
- > Police are not welcome.

no pride

in a police

state

